

Hawaii News Now – At UH nursing school, it's almost like the real thing

HONOLULU – Nurses are in high demand these days, and nursing schools are becoming more competitive. That's why UH Manoa has just unveiled an eight million dollar, state-of-the-art simulation center – where the lessons fall somewhere between make-believe and reality.

“We're giving them the opportunities to, essentially, practice what they will be doing, in an environment that is a safe environment,” says Mary Boland, UH Dean of Nursing.

UH Translational Health Science Simulation Center Website

To read more and watch the news coverage visit,

<http://www.hawaiinewsnow.com/story/16466575/uh-nursing-school-unveils-facility-thats-almost-like-the-real-thing>